A committee has been formed which is getting in touch with the various colleges, the Jewish Welfare Board, and the soldiers' and sailors' organizations, to inform them of the service and to extend them an invitation to be present.

The services will be held at the Congregation Bnai Jeshurun, which is offering for the purpose the use of its Community House, 580 West End Avenue.

Rabbi Israel Goldstein is president of the Young People's League of the United Synagogue, and rabbi of Bnai Jeshurun.

Dear Friend:

Another Tag Day! As little Benny would say:

"Seems as tho' de more tag-days we has and de more money we raises, de more sick people dere is. Well, if dey're sick we gotta help 'em—cause hullee gee! it's heck to be sick. I had de mumps oncet—en I couldn't even eat de green apple wot Slim sneaked up to me wen dey was nobody lookin'. Hey fellers! cummon let's help 'em tag."

AND NOW TO BE SERIOUS

DO YOU KNOW—we had the nicest lot of girls last year that ever went tagging?

That we raised more money that any other Jewish institution and beat some Goyeshe by a good margin?

That though last year's tag-day was as hot as h—— and we all worked like devils, the money raised turned us into angels to those we are helping?

That this year's tag-day is later than last year and will be nice and cool?

That though a lot of us should be attending to our business, we are spending weeks—not merely hours—for the cause?

That if you don't turn up and do your bit, you've got to get someone as good as you instead?

That there's no one else as good as you and, if you don't turn up yourself—just for no reason at all—that you are a quitter?

That I don't believe you're a quitter? How about it?

ANSHE SHOLOM BOYS' CLUB

To show the esteem with which Rabbi Berger was held by the boys of the Anshe Sholom Club, the members tendered him a farewell get-together on Thursday evening, in the vestry rooms of the synagogue. Harold Fenwick, president of the Club, presided, and made a few appropriate remarks. A short and entertaining programme was carried out, singing and a sketch performed by the Finkelman brothers. Max Stein, on behalf of the Boys' Club, presented Rabbi Berger with a suitable gift, upon it engraved, "presented by the B. C. of A. S. The Rabbi feelingly replied. Among other things, he said he was not saying good-bye to them. The pleasant memories of his six years' supervision of the school would always remain with him, and he would in spirit feel that he was with the boys, even though he be far from them. Mr. Finkelman, one of the teachers, addressed with a few remarks. The evening closed with the singing of the Hatikvah.

Mr. Grant is a retired banker, and is touring several countries of the world, and is speaking to many Jewish organizations. He is a journalist, and the editor of "Glad Tidings."

His lecture is the result of personal observations in the Holy Land, and is interesting in as much as it gives an impartial Gentile's opinion of the Jewish situation in Palestine. The lecture will be open to the public. There is no charge. The lodge invites any who are interested to attend.

COUSIN JUDITH
COUSIN DAVID.

Dear Girls and Boys:

Sometimes it seems as though the hardest thing in the world is to find time to do all the fifty-eleven dee-lightful things that ought to be crowded into each and every day. Frinstance (1) All the things one "ought" to do, such as darning stockings and mending bicyles and writing letters; (2) and all the things one "must" do—frinstance, dishes and dusting, visiting and practising; and (3) all the things one "wants" to do—frinstance, reading and tennis, and hikes 'cross country and up hill, and through woodsy woods, and then some more reading; and then fishing and sailing and swimming, and then some more reading; and, of course, travelling here, there and everywhere—and, of course, after that, some more reading! Just seems as though some days Time is in an awfully, terribly great hurry! 'Course, there is the other sort of day too—when the minutes and the seconds and the half-seconds go—oh! so very, very slowly!—but we're not going to talk about that kind now. I suppose the really sensible thing is to save some of the interesting things that can't be crowded into a "fast-time day" for a "slow-time day." A great many people actually do that! With the result that they're always cheerful and happy! When they hear His Wicked Highness the Goof of Dullness crying out, "There's not a thing to do! It's so dull!" these sensible, cheerful people play the Victrola, or the piano, or chess, or checkers, or croquet, or tennis; or they get out their paints or their bicycles or their skates, or their last year's masquerade costumes; or they go for a sail, or a swim, or a visit, or a walk; or they shop, or sew, or they make things like bird's houses or tar cupboards . . . and whatever they do, they smile, and smile, and smile. As to His Wicked Highness the Goof of Dullness, all these smiles just sort of cause him to dwindle down to the teeniest of teeny Goofs. In the teeniest of teeny voices he says, "I see this is no place for me" . . . and that is the last of His Highness. May he never bother any of our cousins is the wish of Cousin Judith.

MAIL BAG

Dear Cousin David:

I was a little afraid that some other boy in our town might get ahead of me, but I believe I'm the first one to write from Quebec. Am I correct? I am fourteen years old and in high school. I'm fond of the work, especially history—but then any Quebecker would be interested in history, I guess. We have some cousins visiting us from out West and it was more than fun showing them round the places of historical interest. We were in Fort Chambly, the Citadel, and our soldier-guide took us into one of the old dungeons. These dungeons are oblong in shape—about three feet by nine feet, horribly dark and damp and clammy—and are ventilated by a narrow slit about as long and narrow as an ordinary table-knife. They go right under ground, too. Imagine being shoved into one of them—and told to meditate on your sins, in ye goode olden times! That's all I'll tell you of Quebec now, because my cousin is writing too, and he doesn't want me to do him out of his little speech.

As to that contest! Why couldn't we have a prize (say a book, or something on that order) for the best letter each fortnight. I mean the most interesting letter. What do you think? May I write again? My nom-de-plume is Citadel Citizen.

Dear Citadel Citizen:

'Course you may write again—you aid your friends and your friends' friends as well. You are right—you are the first cousin to come from Quebec (but we're hoping you won't be the last!) Yes, I like the "best letter" idea. What do the other cousins say?

Cousin David.

August 23, 1923.

Dear Cousin David:

I live in a small town in Ontario, but I'm visiting my uncle in Quebec, which is the quaintest town I've ever seen. The city is built on a high, high rock, oh, hundreds of feet above sea level (or at least, it seems that way!). The streets of old Quebec (there is a modern residential section too) are narrow and very queer. Another funny thing is this: no matter whether one is going north, south, east or west one must both climb a hilly part—and descend a steep slope. There's no such thing as being on the level in Quebec (no reflection on the morals of the inhabitants, of course)!

One day we motored to Ste. Anne de Beaupré, and on the way stopped at the Montmorency Falls. The Falls are very beautiful. It seems the waters fall straight from a high rock—and go through an underground passage under the little pool at the foot, and empty far out in the river. No one knows how deep the pool is.

Well, I guess this is plenty from a new cousin, but I shall come again if you say so. My nom-de-plume is Wolfe.

I salute you, General Wolfe!

Well, you must have enjoyed your trip to Quebec. I have seen pictures of the city perched high up on the rocks. Do you know that it is called the "Rock City"? Your letter was most interesting. Do write again, and enter our contests.

Cousin David.

Editorial

Are the Jews an Asset to a Country?

FARMING AS "BIG BUSINESS"

City and country seem to have been brought closer together in a curious way in the United States. "Three men, all Jews, all city-bred and college-bred," says a writer in "The Outlook," "are to-day the trusted advisers and leaders of the American farmer. Bernard M. Baruch, who made his millions on the New York Stock Exchange, Eugene Meyer, Jr., formerly a Wall Street banker, and Aaron Sapiro, who has an office within the very shadow of the 'Money Trust,' are outstanding figures in teaching the farmer to think straight. Thereby they are serving his wide-flung effort to become master of the prosperity to which he is entitled. This means that the farmer trusts these 'city slickers.'"

The career of Sapiro is of special interest in Canada, for he is now engaged in forming co-operative wheat boards among the farmers of the North-west. He was brought up in an orphan asylum in California, and after he and his brother educated themselves in law they agreed that they would take no divorce cases, no claims for damages, no bankruptcies, no defensive "criminal" cases. They would do constructive work. This so restricted the field that, casting about for a class of business not adequately represented in the courts, they hit upon the farmer, and began studying his problems. To-day Aaron Sapiro, still well under forty, is attorney for sixty farm co-operatives, half of which he organized, and he has recently been retained by the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Sapiro has never organized a co-operative which has failed. The sixty he represents market annually products priced at more than $400,000,000. He reorganized the United States Grain Growers, Inc., after it had run up an indebtedness of several hundred thousand dollars without marketing any grain, and Baruch is now on its Advisroy Board. He is assisting tobacco men in Kentucky and Tennessee, Connecticut and Massachusetts, cotton men in Mississippi, wheat growers in the Middle West, broom-corn raisers in Oklahoma, milk producers around Chicago, and potato growers in Maine. "The Sapiro plan" of co-operation does not mean merely member loyalty to signed agreements. It means, if it is to be successful, expert selling. Only thus can the farmer hope for a larger share of the market dollar.

One reason why earlier co-operative movements failed was that the members were unwilling to pay large salaries for business brains. "The farmer's new leaders," says "The Outlook," "persuaded him that there was nothing inherently bad about sitting at a desk and bossing a job instead of working with one's hands. The new leaders taught him not to shudder at the thought of a $10,000-a-year man in a non-productive post. They told him why Charlie Schwab was worth a million a year to the Steel Corporation and why Sard Vauclain got a comfortable fortune annually from the Baldwin Locomotive Works, and why Daniel Willard drew a fat salary from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Now that he has learned the lesson, $30,000 men are not uncommon in co-operative executive positions."

The above editorial appeared in the "Toronto Globe" of August 16, and we reprint it with our compliments to the paper in which it appeared, because we feel that it should receive as wide publicity as possible.

There are, however, two comments which we feel should be made.

If we could have written the title of the editorial, we would have called it "Are the Jews an Asset to a Country?" rather than the one the editorial writer gave to it. Of course, it all depends on the point of view. The editorial writer of the "Globe" is struck with the peculiar "big business" instinct and capacities of the Jewish race, whereas we are impressed with the extraordinary genius of the Jew in promoting co-operative undertakings. This spirit of co-operative enterprise the Jew has manifested in many lines of American enterprise not merely as an entrepreneur, but also as a proletariat. This, in spite of what Burton Hendricks has said about the Polish Jew being a strict and petty individualist in his business methods. As one reviews the many industrial and commercial enterprises in which the Jew engages, one cannot help but be impressed with the fine spirit of public service which characterizes them.

We are also struck with the professional idealism of Aaron Sapiro, who was a student of the Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati for a period of years, and prepared for a rabbinical career. He gave up his ministerial aspirations in his senior year, and left for California where he became a lawyer. In so doing he merely chose another method of ministering and serving.

At such a time as this, when narrow-headed, limited-visioned people in both United States and Canada are clamouring for further restrictive immigration legislation it is well worth reminding them that if the kind of legislation they desire had been in force two or three generations ago, America might have been deprived of the beneficial public services which the Barney Baruchs, the Eugene Mayers and the Aaron Sapiros are rendering their country in a great crisis.

The Jewish immigrant, contrary to the opinions of anti-Semites, is a remarkable asset to any country which will have him. He comes to stay and brings with him a will to work and succeed. He naturalizes quickly and becomes a loyal citizen. Furthermore, in his children are latent the germs of talent which opportunity develops into the sort of men who are helping to make, not merely "big business," but art, literature, music, science, politics, philosophy—in a word, culture in America.

Just happened to be passing—stopped—looked in—asked to see our new plant—saw it—was shown the entire operation, including the special features, such as the soft water—pure soap—sunlight—fresh air—and how each wash is done separately, doing away with all necessity for marking. His verdict came in the shape of an order for his own family wash. We would like to show everyone our new wash rooms, but, failing that, can only suggest that the quality of work we do will be evidence of the efficiency of our unusually elaborate equipment. The papers are outdoing themselves in the choice of adjectives to show that Henry Ford is stupid, unintelligent and ignorant. The Jewish papers speak from the fullness of their hearts, and the daily papers probably from the fullness of the hearts of their Jewish advertisers. Whatever their viewpoint, most of them are agreed that a Judomaniac is no man for the Presidency of the United States. We echo that sentiment stoutly, but when it comes to calling Ford unintelligent just because he doesn't know his country's history any better than do his average fellow-citizens we stop short, for Ford has done pretty well in his life-time, and not by luck alone.

Listen to the "American Hebrew" now, saying that Ford put over a very sharp deal with regard to Lincoln Motors which might have done credit to the "Jew financiers" he accuses of "waiting until things decay, and then getting into them." As a result thousands of widow-and-orphan investors in Lincoln Motors have money coming to them (maybe) from Ford who purchased the twenty-million dollar property for eight million dollars on his promise to the judge in the bankruptcy proceedings that he would pay all creditors and investors. Also, says this paper, Ford war-profiteered to the amount of twenty-nine millions on government contracts he promised to fill without profit, and then allowed it to be printed in a book written in his own home that he had returned the money, a thing no one else seems to know about.

We should never use this as an example to show how stupid Ford is. It might better serve to show that he was even sharper than the few Jewish profiteers who got away with much less and they might be said to have been as foolish as foxes.

In the ancient days when the first quiver of speech came to my lips, I ascended the holy mountain and spoke unto God, say, "Master, I am thy slave. Thy hidden will is my law and I shall obey thee forever more." But God made no answer, and like a mighty tempest passed away.

And after a thousand years I ascended the holy mountain and again spoke unto God, saying, "Creator, I am thy creation. Out of clay hast thou fashioned me, and to thee I owe mine all." And God made no answer, but like a thousand swift wings passed away.

And after a thousand years I climbed the holy mountain and spoke unto God again saying, "Father, I am thy son. In pity and love, thou hast given me birth, and through love and worship I shall inherit thy kingdom." And God make no answer, and like the mist that veils the distant hills He passed away.

And after a thousand years I climbed the sacred moutain and again spoke unto God, saying, "My God, my aim and my fulfillment; I am thy yesterday and thou art my to-morrow. I am thy root in the earth and thou art my flower in the sky and together we grow before the face of the sun."

Then God leaned over me and in my ears whispered words of sweetness, and even as the sea that enfoldeth a brook that runneth down to her, He enfolded me. And when I descended to the valleys and the plains God was there also.—Kahlil Gibran in" The Madman, His Parables and Poems."

Some Goyim are learning to speak Yiddish, if most Yehudim won't, for the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago says that it is the only Gentile educational institution in the United States to teach Yiddish. Not only that, but its courses include Jewish feasts, customs and history from the time of the Maccabees to the present day. The better to missionize with, of course. This news comes at the same time that the Jewish Education Association of New York is campaigning for money with which to put 10,000 Jewish children in religious schools in New York this fall. Until these children get well along in their studies let us hope that the Gentile graduates of the Moody Bible Insitute don't meet the rest of us and catch us in our ignorance.

PRINTING

as merchandise is a misnomer. Can a printed label be compared with an axe, for instance? The label carries a parcel across the continent or around the world, telling each handler from whence to where. The axe is useful too, but only to the immediate user. Printing is direction, information and intelligence. Its appeal is to the educated mind. And do not forget that every educated mind is derived from what printing has taught it.

to the bar of Manitoba.

The whole of the Jewish community of Winnipeg mourns her death.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Tobias was held on Thursday, August 23, when her body was laid to rest in the old Kildonan Cemetery beside that of her husband. The service was conducted by the Rev. H. J. Samuel and was attended by a large concourse of people from all sections of the community who showed by their presence their esteem for an old-timer who had been active in philanthropic work in the city. The cortage which followed the hearse was one of unusual length. The pall-bearers were Arthur, Norman and William Tobias, sons, Harry Kay, son-in-law, Frank Druxerman, brother, and Louis and Sam Zimmerman, nephews of the deceased.

Jerusalem (J. T. A.)—The administration of the Palestine railways has declined to consider the demand of the Rabbinical office to permit Jewish workers to rest on Saturday and work on Sunday. The railway authorities contend that work on the railways, particularly the loading and unloading of goods trains, is a public utility which requires work to be done on schedule time, irrespective of holidays.

Musa Kazim States the Palestine Arabs' Case

Insist on Repudiation of Zionist Policy, Establishment of National Government—Would Deal Only with Palestine Jews—Denies Feisul Favoured Zionism.

London (J.T.A.).—Prior to his departure to London as head of the Arab delegation, Musa Kazim Pasha gave an interview to the J.T.A. (already briefly reported by cable), expressing his opinion on the position of the Arabs in Palestine and the demand put forward at present by the Arab leaders.

The interview took place in the presence o Jamal el Husseini, secretary to the Arab executive and other members of that body, and is significant in view of the delegation's announced intention of presenting their claims before the Duke of Devonshire and his Cabinet Committee studying the Palestine situation. (On the ground that a hearing before the Committee would prove "impracticable" now, the Colonial Secretary has declined to receive the Arab delegation according to latest cable advices.—J.T.A., New York.

"What course of action will be adopted by your delegation in London?" the J.T.A. representative asked. "We shall not allow ourselves to be affected by what the British Government is thinking," replied Musa Kazim Pasha. "We believe in the justice of our demands and we shall persevere in our efforts to prevent interference with our rights; to this we shall employ all legal means. I personally do not believe that the British Government will persist in its present policy, as this is directly opposed to its best interests and all ideas of justice.

"The delegation will demand (a) repudiation of the present Zionist policy; (b) the establishment of an independent national constitutional government in Palestine consisting of representatives of the Moslem, Christian and Jewish communities proportionate to the numbers of these communities in Palestine before the war."

In reply to the question whether he believed in the possibility of the abolition of the Zionist policy, in view of the Balfour Declaration, the Mandate and the statement made recently by Mr. Ormsby-Gore in the House of Commons, to the effect that the present policy was already considered as an international pledge, Musa Kazim said:

"I believe in the British sense of justice and equity, and that the Balfour Declaration was not binding legally, as it was only a declaration of sympathy stated in a personal letter from Lord Balfour to Lord Rothschild."

Asked whether he saw a way to an understanding and co-operation with the Mandatory Power if the Balfour Declaration and the Mandate will remain formally, Musa Kazim Pasha replied:

"We ignore the Zionist policy absolutely. If England desires to come to an understanding with us, it must establish immediately in Palestine, a national government, responsible to Parliament, as is the custom in all other countries. This action will convince us that it is not the aim of England that Jews should dominate the country. This national Government would arrange for the entry of immigrants irrespective of nationality or creed, Jews, Moslems or Christians, according to the economic resources of the country. This would satisfy us for the present."

The Arab leader, when questioned as to the possibility of a direct agreement between the Jews and the Arabs, and the basis of such an agreement, said that he could not recognize the right of the Zionist executive or that to any Jew who was not a resident of Palestine before the war, to negotiate on any matter concerning the country.

"If the Palestine Jews desire any such arrangement on the basis of our demands, we should recognize their demands and they would enjoy all civil, political and religious rights equally with ourselves," he said.

The J.T.A. representative asked: "What is your view of the Hedjas Treaty and do you think it likely that King Hussein will sign it? Do you think that the rulers of the Arab states, bound as they are by various treaties with Great Britain, will support the Arab demands in their fullest sense?"

Musa Kazim replied: "King Hussein is not likely to sign the treaty in the form published by the Palestine administration. He would never sign any treaty contradictory to our aims. Likewise, King Feisul, the Emir Abdullah, the Imam of Jeman, the Sultan of Najed and every other Arab prince will support us in our demands. The whole Arab race is in agreement with us, as are also all the Moslems. Even from Tunis, Morocco and other countries we have received expressions to this effect."

To a question as to the favour with which King Feisul regarded the aims of the Zionists in 1919, a favour manifested in his letters to the Zionist leaders, the reply was made that King Feisul had specifically denied having written letters in the form published by the Zionist organization.

Copies of the original letters had been seen by Kazim Pasha and contained no sentiment approaching anything like an agreement with Zionist aspirations, which were not recognized either by the Emir Abdullah or King Feisul, who only desired that Palestine should remain in the hands of Arabs.

Kazim Pasha stated in connection with the Advisory Council, that he believed that not one of the members who have resigned would consent to serve. Neither Arif el D'jami nor Ragheb Bey Nashashibi would alter their decision and no other Arab would consent to become a member.

The administration will undoubtedly manage to influence ten persons to become members, but these will be regarded by us only as ordinary government officials. He further stated that the event of their present efforts proving unsuccessful, further delegations, a hundred if necessary, would continue to be sent, until the Arabs obtained a hearing.

Kazim Pasha said that the non-payment of taxes was a decision of the Sixth Arab Congress. This decision would be put into execution when the soil was fully prepared for it and when the time was considered ripe.

J. D. C. TO QUIT RUSSIA IN NOVEMBER

Drs. Rosen and Bogen Seek to Stop Liquidation.

Moscow (J.T.A.).—The American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee has commenced the process of gradual liquidation, and will end its activities in Russia in November.

The termination of the activities of the J. D. C. at present is being opposed by the Moscow representatives of the organization, Doctors Rosen and Bogen, as premature. They are planning to leave for the States in October in a final effort to obtain the continuation of the work.

The dissolution at present, Jewish representatives contend, will mean death by starvation to thousands, particularly to children who are now dependent on the J. D. C. for food.

Russian Jewish circles here believe that if American Jewry realized the true situation in Russia, they would never consent to the liquidation. Even if there is a good harvest in Russia, it will mean little to the Jewish population, it is pointed out, in view of the fact that it is largely urban.

Price in general are still far beyond the reach of any except the most fortunately situated, the cheapest suit of clothes selling for seventy dollars.

In many towns of the Ukraine, the J. T. A. representative learns, homes for Jewish children are being closed for lack of funds. The Idgezcom departments are also being abandoned in many cities.

DOUGLAS NOW TO SUE "JEWISH GUARDIAN" FOR LIBEL

London (J.T.A.).—"Truth" has received a letter from Lord Alfred Douglas which the editor writes he has not quite the courage either to publish or to suppress. The substance of it is that he does not quarrel with the verdict of the jury because it was the fault of his counsel who did not follow his instructions or use his material for cross-examination; that he adheres to all he has said about the battle of Jutland; and that he hopes to establish its truth in an action against the "Jewish Guardian." "Truth" seems calculated to bring "Truth" into collision with Lord Alfred's counsel and all the principal witnesses on the other side, and possibly into a contempt of court. It will be safer, it concludes, to wait until the action against the "Jewish Guardian" is disposed of.

CATHOLICS UPSET BY "JEWISH INVASION AND "ENGLISH-PROTESTANT" PROPAGANDA

Rome (J.T.A.)—The so-called "invasion of Jews" into Palestine and the "English-Protestant" propaganda is causing grave anxiety in Catholic circles, as will be seen from the following official statement appearing recently in the Catholic newspapers here:

"In connection with the Peace of Lausanne, Catholic circles are following the position in Palestine with particular interest. Anxiety is caused not only by the invasion of Jews but also by the English-Protestant progaganda which is being conducted with the aid of large financial means. The Catholics of the Holy Land are thus finding themselves placed between two fires—the Jewish and the Protestant.

"The problem has been thoroughly examined these last few days by leading circles of the Holy See, and in agreement with the Latin Patriarch and the Franciscans in the Holy Land, it is now intended that no means should be left unused in order to protect the interests of Catholicism both now and in the future."

LORD WHO ATTACKS ROUMANIA IS CALLED A JEW

Bucharest (J.T.A.)—His attack on Roumania for its oppression of the Hungarians in Transylvania in the House of Lords last week, has gotten Lord Newton in bad with the Anti-Semites.

Instead of attempting to answer the attack, the "Victoria" seeks to argue it down by "charging" that Lord Newton is a Jew. The paper declares that Lord Newton's father was a native of Oradeamare, that he emigrated to England in 1800, founded a brewery and made a fortune. In return for loans of money to the then Prince of Wales, a barony was conferred on him, according to the story.

The "Victoria" gives no evidence in support of the contention that Lord Newton is of Jewish origin, unless it be the fact that he demands fair treatment for the oppressed can be construed as such evidence.

MAIL BOX

Montreal, August 27, 1923.

Editor,
Canadian Jewish Review:

The editorial on "Zionists and Zionism" which appeared in the issue of August 24th and remained unsigned, contrary to the usual habit of the editorial writer in your paper, leaves the painful impression of one uttering a disparaging remark and wishing to hide his identity.

For it is after all, impossible to conceive that this editorial was written by one who attaches importance to the accuracy of the statements one makes.

To some of the principal statements in that editorial, you will permit me to answer the following:

1. The fact is, that since the Balfour Declaration the Congress has to deal mainly with the material side of restoration of Erez Israel, which will make the spiritual restoration possible.

2. The greatest parliaments of the world have parties contesting an issue of national importance, but neither side is branded as "mediocre people" in civilized lands.

3. Those who interest themselves in Zionism and are identified with the movement are necessarily considered the logical representatives to the Congress.

By what right are they called "batlanim" and by other unbecoming appellations especially when one is not even in the possession of the list of names of the delegates? How can one base his judgment as to the quality of the Congress being mediocre, without first, at least, reading carefully the minutes or authentical reports?

4. The "American countries" have a contingent of loyal Zionists who have not deserted the work before them, and who have succeeded in collecting large sums for the actual rebuilding of Palestine, and that mainly from the less wealthy classes.

5. All will agree that a Jew "merchant or junk dealer" who contributes to the rebuilding of the National Homeland, is indeed more important to the nation than the richest and most prominent, who remains indifferent to the national appeal.

The editorial in question was written by one who has a personal grievance, and calculated to injure Zionism in Canada at least, and is consistent with a previous attack made in your paper on July 27. A publication may remain neutral, but when voicing attacks in editorials, the paper should first make sure of the truth. Nevertheless Zionism will outlive unjust criticism. The people, too, may be trusted to discern between its friends and enemies.

yours truly,
Leon Goldman,
Executive secretary.

(The managing editor of THE CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW regrets exceedingly that the secretary of the Zionist organization of Canada, in his misplaced zeal, failed to notice on the cover of THE CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW, the following statement, "Zionists Must Measure up to Zionism," by Rabbi B. R. Brickner, contributing editor." We would advise the writer of the letter to use a little bit more of his own advice.

Rabbi Brickner's frank utterances have, on various occasions in the past, called forth much criticism, and we have no doubt that his candour in the future will earn further enmity. At no time, however, has he or THE CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW evinced a desire to hide behind the cloak of anonymity. Further, the rabbi's unfaltering championing of the cause of Zionism is so well-known as to require no defence here).

DR. TCHERNOWITZ TO RECONCILE TALMUDIC CODE WITH MODERN LIFE

"Rav Zair," First of Faculty of Jerusalem University, to Lecture Here

New York (J.T.A.).—The study of the application of the Mosaic code and Talmudic law to Jewish life in modern Palestine is the object set for himself by Dr. Chaim Tchernowitz, leading Russian rabbi and noted scholar, who arrived in New York this week.

Dr. Tchernowitz will spend some months here prior to his departure for Jerusalem to occupy the chair of Jewish jurisprudence and Talmudic law at the Hebrew University there. His is among the first three departments of the University to open in 1924, the others being Jewish archæology which will be occupied by Professor Samuel Kraus, and Jewish history by Prof. Ludwig Blau, of Budapest.

Dr. Tchernowitz, formerly head of the famous Talmudic Seminary of Odessa, is the author of numerous works on Jewish jurisprudence, among them the History and Development of the Jewish Code, An Introduction to the Talmud, Lectures on Talmudic Civil Rights, and a Compendium of the Talmud.

America and Palestine are the future centres of Jewish culture, Dr. Tchernowitz believes; Palestine because of the international facilities for the establishment of the Jewish homeland, and America because of its large and prosperous Jewish community.

Dr. Tchernowitz hopes the American Government will use its influence over the Soviet Government with a view to having the persecution of ministers of religion stopped. The rabbis are the particular sufferers, he asserts, both "economically and spiritually."

Asked for his opinion of the aims of the Agudath Israel, Dr. Tchernowitz declared he did not believe in clericalism and he particularly deprecated the attempts of the extreme orthodox wing to confuse politics with religion.

During his sojourn in the United States, Dr. Tchernowitz, known in Hebrew literature as "Rav Zair," will lecture at some of the higher seats of Jewish learning, it is understood.

INTERPARLIAMENTARY UNION TO SAFEGUARD MINORITY RIGHTS

Copenhagen (J.T.A.)—The Congress of the Interparliamentary Union at its closing session yesterday adopted a series of resolutions providing for the safeguarding in some of the old and newly created European states of the rights of the national minorities. The resolutions were introduced by M. Usteri, of the Swiss Delegation.

The first resolution demanding full safeguards for the languages and religions of the minority nationalities was adopted with but five dissenting votes.

The establishment of interstate equality committees to prevent national conflicts was adopted unanimously.

With thirteen dissenting votes, a resolution was carried for the establishment of a permanent committee of the Interparliamentary Union to control the rights of minorities, with special reference to admissions in schools and universities.

This resolution is directed against the agitation in a number of European countries in favour of percentages quota for members of minority nationalities.

Americans at the Interparliamentary Congress include Senators Joseph Robinson (D), of Arkansas, Robert M. La Follette (R), of Wisconsin; William B. MacKinley (R), of Illinois, Kenneth McKellar (D), of Tennessee, and Claude A. Swanson (D), of Virginia.
